

ACPMP New Patient Guide

1.

FIND A SPECIALIST

It is highly recommended that appendix cancer and PMP patients seek out a specialist who deals with these conditions on a regular basis before commencing treatment. Check out acpmp.org/find-a-specialist to find one near you.

2.

CONNECT WITH OTHERS

Join the private and active Facebook support group called 'PMP Appendix Cancer Support Group' or ACPMP's Facebook group called 'ACPMP Research Foundation'. Email info@acpmp.org to be connected with one of our Patient Advisory Council members for more one-on-one support.

RECEIVE UPDATES

Follow ACPMP on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, YouTube, & LinkedIn. Receive regular updates from ACPMP with the latest news on appendix cancer and PMP by joining our mailing list. Sign up at acpmp.org/email-signup.

EDUCATE YOURSELF

Learn facts about appendix cancer and PMP, particularly about diagnosis, treatment and terminology. Check out videos from our educational events to learn more about these diseases and optimal treatment and go to acpmp.org/about-acpmp to review recent research and FAQs. acpmp.org/helpful-links has additional links to resources!

PARTICIPATE IN RESEARCH

Review ACPMP's list of active clinical trials and discuss with your physician. Ask your physician about genetic & molecular profiling of your tumor to guide treatment :

acpmp.org/clinical-trials.

ACPMP's Patient Registry serves as a platform for patients around the world to share information about appendix cancer and PMP in order to build an international resource to be used by scientists in future research.
